Richard Lowe, Regents Professor of History, has been at the University of North Texas since 1968. He earned his B.A. degree at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette, his A.M. degree at Harvard University, and the Ph.D. at the University of Virginia. The author of several books and numerous articles on the antebellum period and the American Civil War and Reconstruction, he is also the editor of the scholarly journal sponsored by the Military History Center, Military History of the West, which publishes articles and book reviews on military topics (broadly defined) in the history of the American West. His most recent book, Walker's Texas Division, C.S.A. (Louisiana State University Press, 2004), won the Jefferson Davis Award, given by the Museum of the Confederacy in Richmond, Virginia. He is currently editing and annotating the postwar memoir of Confederate General John G. Walker.
