

Application: The Fund for Innovation in Texas History

Thanks to generous donor support, the UNT Department of History offers funding to support impactful projects and innovative initiatives in Texas history led by UNT faculty.

Fundable projects might include (but are certainly not limited to) support for a digital project, hosting a conference, an oral history project, a public outreach project, or a compelling research initiative.

We will prioritize original and ambitious proposals most likely to enhance our department's reputation as a site for cutting-edge Texas history.

Considerations will include the contributions of the project, the feasibility of the project, and the proposing faculty member's recent funding history.

The department chair will convene an ad hoc committee that includes themselves and two faculty, and a representative from the college.

Please submit to the department chair by May 1. Please also send a recent CV.

Name:

Date:

Project title:

Anticipated dates of work:

Amount requested:

Project description (up to 400 words explaining what you plan to do and its relevance to Texas history):

Impact statement (up to 250 words explaining how the project will contribute to our department's reputation as a site for cutting-edge Texas history):

Budget plan: