

Josiah Bunting

Josiah Bunting III has been Superintendent of the Virginia Military Institute, Head Master of the Lawrenceville School, a professor at West Point and the U.S. Naval War College, and a Rhodes Scholar. He served for six years in the U.S. Army and was decorated for bravery in Vietnam. He wrote the acclaimed Vietnam novel Lionheads after the war, and is currently President of the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation in New York.