

Keith Mitchener

Keith Mitchener is a naval historian. His principal focus is World War II in the Pacific, though his studies span the gamut from the Age of Sail to the present day. He earned a Bachelor of Arts in History from Mississippi State University in 1991. He then earned a Master of Arts in European History in 2000 and a Doctor of Philosophy in United States History in 2006, both from the University of North Texas. He has taught courses in the history of the United States Navy, maritime history 1688-1838, the rise of English sea power 1399-1714, and World War II in Asia and the Pacific. His published works include encyclopedia articles on amphibious warfare as well as on U.S. Naval and Marine Corps intelligence. He also has been involved in several international conferences on the Second World War both as an organizer and as a presenter.
